DR. E. MARKLEY EXPIRES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Dr. Edgar H. Markley, widely known retired Gettysburg dentist and business man, died this morning at 5:20 o'clock at his home, 39 York street. He had been ill since last Monday as a result of a heart attack.

A dentist in New Oxford for three years and in Gettysburg for 25 years, he was born in Idaville, a son of the late David Henry and Anna (Houck) Markley. He lived all of his life in Adams county with the exception of the period when he attended the New Jersey Business College, Newark, and the University of Maryland, from which he graduated in 1894 as a dentist. He attended the York Springs public schools.

After practicing as a dentist in New Oxford for 3 years he moved to Gettysburg where for a quarter of a century he engaged in the same profession. Since that time he was widely known as a business man, operating garages in association with the late Eddie Plank and Ira Plank and later with Ira Plank alone. For years he and Mr. Plank conducted the Ford garage on York street. He was also active in many community affairs.

Headed Hospital Board

He managed a number of orchards for the First National Bank of Gettysburg and managed his own fruit farm until recently.

The deceased was a director of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, New Oxford, and was president of the Adams County Building and Loan Association. He had been president of the board of directors of the Annie M. Warner hospital for the last three years, and was a member of St. James Lutheran church and the Gettysburg Elks lodge.

Only recently Dr. Markley was asked to serve on the food panel of the ration board. He readily agreed stating "I'll be glad to do anything I can for the war effort." His name was immediately sent to Harrisburg and his appointment was expected momentarily.

Funeral Monday

He is survived by his second wife, who was the former Miss Bess Rafensperger and a son by his first wife, the former Minnie M. Klinefelter, who died in 1926. The son, Edgar K. Markley, was an attorney in Gettysburg until his induction into the U. S. Army April 15, 1941. He is now a captain, stationed at Washington, D. C., where he is an assistant recorder in the division of contract appeals of the War Department in the office of the Secretary of War.

A sister, Mrs. C. W. Gardner, formerly of Gettysburg and Belmore, Long Island, also survive.

Harry E. Brown, Fairfield, was re-elected president of the executive committee of the Adams County Agricultural Extension Association at its annual reorganization meeting Friday evening at the court house.

Other officers and directors re-elected include: John C. Peters, gardeners, vice president; John C. Bream, Gettysburg R. D., secretary; Quintin D. Rebert, Littlestown R. Hartman, presenting a report on his activities since the annual general meeting in February, told of reorganizing baby beef club work, holding a series of woodlot and saw fitting meetings, attending cherry growers, fruit and vegetable growers meetings and work in soil erosion, farm labor, farm deferments, farm management and other activities. Reports on their activities were given by Miss Mildred L. Adams, county home economics extension representative, and J. Howard Walker, assistant county farm agent.

H. G. Niesley of the central office of the agricultural extension bureau, State College, discussed with the board the possibility of completing post-war plans for the county in the near future.

Plans for a county-wide 4-H club camp to be held May 4 were announced by Miss Adams in her report.

Dr. Edgar H. Markley, retired Gettysburg dentist and President of the Board of Directors of the Annie M. Warner hospital, who died early this morning after a brief illness.

CALL FOR MORE BLOOD DONORS; TO MAIL CARDS

Although 250 appointment cards for the fifteenth monthly visit of the Red Cross blood receiving unit in Gettysburg next Friday are ready to go into the mail Monday, the Blood Donor Service of the county Red Cross chapter appealed today for new donors to be listed for future donations.

National headquarters has been emphasizing the urgency of increasing the list of volunteer donors in the face of expected military developments, a local chapter official said. The prospect of the invasion of Europe and the continuing offensive in the Pacific put extra emphasis on the importance of the life-giving blood plasma. Red Cross workers pointed out.

1,670 Pints Given Here
Countians who will receive cards giving them "an appointment to save a life" are urged to keep the appointments or notify the donor service chairman promptly so that, another donor may be called. Because nearly a third of the county men and women who had appointments in March failed to appear and gave no notice that they would not be present, only 125 pints of blood were received here March 31—the lowest total for any monthly visit so far this year.

A total of 1,670 pints of blood have been given in the local Blood Donor service station in the basement of Christ Lutheran church since the monthly visits were begun in January, 1943.

Local Women Assist
Friday's appointments run from noon to 4:15 o'clock.

Local chapter staff assistants will be on duty to help register the donors as they arrive at the station. Local nurses and nurses' aides will perform their usual duties.

A group of women from Biglerville will be in charge of the kitchen while women of St. James Lutheran church will be on duty in the dining room.

New blood donors may register either at the Red Cross office in the Topper building, Baltimore street, or at Lippy's store on Chambersburg street.

SEEK 353 TONS OF PAPER HERE

Adams county has been asked to gather a total of 353 tons of waste paper in May. Vernon Corle, local salvage chairman, said today as he pointed out that current reports show that waste paper collections throughout the state were far below quotas for the first three months of the year.

The Pennsylvania waste paper quota for January, February and March was 140,000 net tons but the total collections reported were 85,021 tons. Of the 54 counties reporting for the first quarter, only 16 topped their quotas.

Mr. Corle said that complaints from merchants that they cannot dispose of waste fats being brought in by customers because waste fats dealers will not remove the accumulated supplies have been referred to Harrisburg for investigation and action. Some merchants in this area have had to refuse to accept waste fats, on which customers now are entitled to red points as well as cash, because they cannot dispose of the fats which are so badly needed in the manufacture of munitions.

NEGRO TERMED "HONEST MAN" BY WITNESSES

Calvin Claggett, 36-year-old Fairfield R. D. negro, was termed an "honest, conscientious, Christian man," Friday afternoon as character witnesses were brought forward in a hearing before the county court on charges brought against him in the fatal injuring of Harry Francis Wetzel, Fairfield R. D., in 1942.

Only the defense witnesses, including Claggett, were heard by the court Friday afternoon, with the state to present its witnesses prior to sentence by the court June 12. Claggett has pleaded "no defense" to involuntary manslaughter and hit and run driving charges.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general for the United States under President Hoover, Claggett's employer, told the court that Claggett "for the past two years has been in charge of all the work at the farm and prior to that he worked there as a hand. He handled the money, hired and fired the extra help and throughout I have found him honest and trustworthy. I knew him before he came here, knew the people for whom he has worked all of his life. He does not drink, nor swear. He is a Christian man, utterly sincere in his work for his employers and conscientious throughout."

Defends Defendants

Asked if she knew that he and Miss Mary Mason were living as man and wife, Mrs. Willebrandt said that "the girl with whom he had his 'court-house' wedding ran off and later he attempted to obtain a divorce but found that it was too expensive. Except for the legal angle involved, he and Miss Mason have contracted what you might call a common-law marriage. They are true to each other and live as if married. The situation is quite common among uneducated people, particularly of his race."

Miss Grace Miller, Washington, who said she was a frequent visitor to the Willebrandt farm, said she had found Claggett "utterly trustworthy" during periods in which she had "looked after the farm from time to time for Mrs. Willebrandt."

Tell Of Accident

Claggett and Miss Mason told the same story, that they and another person had been driving from the Willebrandt farm to Emmitsburg on November 28, 1942 about 8 o'clock.

Near Zora they saw Wetzel in the middle of the road, with his hands up above his head and apparently intoxicated. Claggett said he attempted to pass Wetzel, pulling far to the side of the road. As they passed Wetzel, both Claggett and Miss Mason said, Wetzel fell against the side of the car breaking the rear window.

Miss Mason said she knew Wetzel before they passed him and had remarked that he "seemed drunk."

Continuing her story Miss Mason said:

"We went up the road apiece and I said to Claggett 'Ain't we gonna stop?' He said, 'I'm gonna turn around after we get up here away.'"

Returned To Scene

"We turned around and went back to the place where he was laying. A car had already stopped and a couple others were stopping and people were getting out. We stopped and went over to where some folks were standing around him and watched. So after about five minutes I told Claggett 'There's nothing we can do,' so we went on into Emmitsburg."

Asked if they had talked about the accident after that Miss Mason said they had not but that on the way to Emmitsburg after they had stopped at the scene of the accident Claggett had said: "If there's any talking I'll do it."

Claggett told substantially the same story, saying that he didn't know of anything he could do to help, and wishing to avoid trouble, had kept quiet about the matter.

Gitlin, who was riding alone, was unhurt but the front of the truck was considerably damaged. The driver said he "dozed off" at the wheel.

British Submarine Rescues Yank Pilot Under Nose Of Jap Guns

By EUGENE BURNS

Aboard an American Carrier Off Sabang, Sumatra, April 19 (Delayed) (AP)—Under the smoking guns of Japanese coastal batteries, a British submarine made one of the most dramatic rescues of the war today, picking up an American pilot, Lt. (jg) Dale Christian (Klondike) Klahn, shot down in the task force blow against Sabang and Lhonga.

Klahn's plane—the flier's home is at 411 Eighth street, Laramie, Wyo.—was the only one downed by the Japanese during the raid.

Twelve Hellcats meanwhile spread a star-spangled umbrella over the little yellow life raft and the rescuing submarine, nailing down the Japanese air force.

A Japanese destroyer which tried to close with the surfaced and comparatively slow-moving and unmaneuverable submarine was stopped "dead in its tracks" by the Hellcats.

JURY APPROVES RENOVATION OF COUNTY OFFICES

The April Adams county grand jury Friday afternoon approved the renovation of the offices of the county commissioners and treasurer and approved expenditures up to $1,500 for the work in its report made to the county court following a survey of the court house, county home and jail.

The report of the jury said: "The members of the grand jury accept the petition of the county commissioners to improve the offices of the commissioners and the treasurer providing the cost does not exceed the sum of $1,500." The jury in its report also "further recommends that the office and the back right room of the jail be papered and the cells and halls painted. The grand jury also recommends that the floors at the county home in the employees' dining room and hall be repaired and covered with linoleum."

4 Criminal Cases

The work of the grand jury was completed Friday afternoon. Trials of the various cases will begin Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock with five civil and four criminal cases listed for action. The criminal trials will be held first.

The court Friday approved tax collectors bonds for the following: Herbert Zepp, Straban township; J. D. Ernst, Latimore township; Reid Eppelman, Littlestown; Donald Smith, Liberty township; A. D. Sheely, Arendtsville; Melvin M. Sharrer, Tyrone township; Hugh Scott, Highland township; E. J. Sinner, East Berlin; Mrs. W. A. Mahone, Oxford township; James Izer, Hamiltonban township; Edward Shorb, Conewago township and H. B. Millar, New Oxford.

Richard Currens, Orrtanna R. D., was ordered to file a $500 bond to keep the peace following a hearing on a surety of the peace charge brought against him by his wife.

Damage Viewers

John P. Butt Esq., LeRoy H. Winebrenner and A. C. Keefer were appointed viewers by the court to determine the damages to the property of Hobson D. and Pauline E. Crouse, Gettysburg R. D. caused by the relocation of the Littlestown-Gettysburg road in 1942. The petition by the Crouses asking for the board of viewers stated that they had been unable to come to an agreement with the state highway department on the amount of damages to be paid.

The board will view the damages May 16, according to the order of the court.

George A. Hughes was appointed constable for the first ward of Gettysburg by the court to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Chief of Police Glenn Guise from the post when he was called into service with the U. S. Marines. Two other men had been seeking the post, Borough officer Clark Staley and Victor Palmer. The decision of the court was made following a hearing on the petitions.

Charles Utz, who had presented a petition as constable in the second ward was allowed to withdraw the petition after his attorney had asked that permission, stating that Mr. Utz believed he would be unable to properly fill the constable post because of an increase in barbering business.

Joseph John Grinnage, flight instructor at the Gettysburg airport, was permitted to change his name to Joseph John Gage, following a hearing on the matter. His name was difficult for most people to pronounce and spell, he told the court, and his brother had previously officially changed his last name to Gage.

Moscow, April 22 (AP)—Russia's Crimean Armies and the Red fleet have massed at Sevastopol "to fling the enemy into the sea," Red Fleet Correspondent Lt. Dimitri Nijolaev reported today as Soviet forces tightened their siege on the great naval base.

The Russians have captured hills dominating the city's approaches, the correspondent wrote, and are storming one pass after another despite German long-range guns and strafing and bombing attacks by the enemy's air forces which have put down a "screen of fire" in the mountains.

In the southeastern section of old Poland, today's commune said Red Army artillerymen, pouring a hurricane of fire into charging masses of German tanks and infantry, again threw back powerful German thrusts as the battle raging east of Stanislawow spread through the Carpathian foothills.

Hand-To-Hand Encounters

In fierce fighting that also repeatedly took the shape of hand-to-hand encounters, the Germans lost 1,500 in killed alone on the third day of the battle yesterday and anti-tank gunners destroyed 68 tanks in beating back Panzer assaults, the bulletin declared.

A front dispatch said the Germans, using the flooded Prut and Dneestr rivers to guard their flanks, had thrown a great weight of men and machines down the intervening valley in a drive apparently aimed at relieving Soviet pressure on Lwow, big communications center 65 miles northwest of Stanislawow and 45 miles west of the nearest Russian forces.

(A Berlin broadcast, possibly providing a clue to the current German attacks, asserted that huge Red Army reserves were flowing through the Ukraine into a 250-mile sector of the Polish front between the upper Dneestr and the Pripyat marshes in prelude to fresh Russian assaults along the most direct invasion route to Berlin.

Gen. Von Mannstein Replaced

(A Berlin dispatch to a Swedish newspaper said Marshal Fritz Eric Von Mannstein had been replaced as commander in the Carpathian sector by Gen. Modl, comparatively unknown. The dispatch gave no indication as to where Von Mannstein had been shifted.)

The Soviet communique contained no mention of the fighting around besieged Sevastopol, but front dispatches said the Red Army lines had edged nearer to the sea and that German and Romanian divisional remnants, deserted by their commanders, were fighting each other in an effort to grab ship passage out of the big Crimean port.

The dispatches said Soviet warships and bombers continued to thwart evacuation attempts and quoted returning pilots as saying they saw many bodies floating in the Black sea after their escape craft had been sent to the bottom.

LeRoy H. Winebrenner was selected as marshal.

The chairman and secretary were instructed to invite ministers to conduct the invocation and benediction and the secretary was instructed to get in touch with the governor's committee to arrange for a joint meeting of the two groups to complete plans for the Memorial Day exercises. Forty-two governors are planning to attend the annual exercises here.

Rubenstein was accused of taking Miss Quade and Lois Rentzel, 16, of York, Pa., to a New York hotel. Before his arraignment before Magistrate Joseph B. Biebeck, he had been free in $3,500 bail.

He does not drink, nor swear. He is a Christian man, utterly sincere in his work for his employers and conscientious throughout."

Defends Defendants

Asked if she knew that he and Miss Mary Mason were living as man and wife, Mrs. Willebrandt said that "the girl with whom he had his 'court-house' wedding ran off and later he attempted to obtain a divorce but found that it was too expensive. Except for the legal angle involved, he and Miss Mason have contracted what you might call a common-law marriage. They are true to each other and live as if married. The situation is quite common among uneducated people, particularly of his race."

Miss Grace Miller, Washington, who said she was a frequent visitor to the Willebrandt farm, said she had found Claggett "utterly trustworthy" during periods in which she had "looked after the farm from time to time for Mrs. Willebrandt."

Robert Martin, cashier of the Fairfield National Bank, Harry Brown, Fairfield dairyman who has general supervision over the Willebrandt farm, and Herbert Ginnell, Zora, all testified that they had found Claggett trustworthy and dependable.

Tell Of Accident

Claggett and Miss Mason told the same story, that they and another person had been driving from the Willebrandt farm to Emmitsburg on November 28, 1942 about 8 o'clock.

Near Zora they saw Wetzel in the middle of the road, with his hands up above his head and apparently intoxicated. Claggett said he attempted to pass Wetzel, pulling far to the side of the road. As they passed Wetzel, both Claggett and Miss Mason said, Wetzel fell against the side of the car breaking the rear window.

Miss Mason said she knew Wetzel before they passed him and had remarked that he "seemed drunk."

Continuing her story Miss Mason said:

"We went up the road apiece and I said to Claggett 'Ain't we gonna stop?' He said, 'I'm gonna turn around after we get up here away.'"

Returned To Scene

"We turned around and went back to the place where he was laying. A car had already stopped and a couple others were stopping and people were getting out. We stopped and went over to where some folks were standing around him and watched. So after about five minutes I told Claggett 'There's nothing we can do,' so we went on into Emmitsburg."

Claggett told substantially the same story, saying that he didn't know of anything he could do to help, and wishing to avoid trouble, had kept quiet about the matter.

British Submarine Rescues Yank Pilot Under Nose Of Jap Guns

By EUGENE BURNS

Aboard an American Carrier Off Sabang, Sumatra, April 19 (Delayed) (AP)—Under the smoking guns of Japanese coastal batteries, a British submarine made one of the most dramatic rescues of the war today, picking up an American pilot, Lt. (jg) Dale Christian (Klondike) Klahn, shot down in the task force blow against Sabang and Lhonga.

Klahn's plane—the flier's home is at 411 Eighth street, Laramie, Wyo.—was the only one downed by the Japanese during the raid.

Twelve Hellcats meanwhile spread a star-spangled umbrella over the little yellow life raft and the rescuing submarine, nailing down the Japanese air force.

A Japanese destroyer which tried to close with the surfaced and comparatively slow-moving and unmaneuverable submarine was stopped "dead in its tracks" by the Hellcats.

JURY APPROVES RENOVATION OF COUNTY OFFICES

The April Adams county grand jury Friday afternoon approved the renovation of the offices of the county commissioners and treasurer and approved expenditures up to $1,500 for the work in its report made to the county court following a survey of the court house, county home and jail.

The report of the jury said: "The members of the grand jury accept the petition of the county commissioners to improve the offices of the commissioners and the treasurer providing the cost does not exceed the sum of $1,500." The jury in its report also "further recommends that the office and the back right room of the jail be papered and the cells and halls painted. The grand jury also recommends that the floors at the county home in the employes' dining room and hall be repaired and covered with linoleum."

4 Criminal Cases

The work of the grand jury was completed Friday afternoon. Trials of the various cases will begin Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock with five civil and four criminal cases listed for action. The criminal trials will be held first.

Damage Viewers

John P. Butt Esq., LeRoy H. Winebrenner and A. C. Keefe were appointed viewers by the court to determine the damages to the property of Hobson D. and Pauline E. Crouse, Gettysburg R. D. caused by the relocation of the Littlestown-Gettysburg road in 1942. The petition by the Crouses asking for the board of viewers stated that they had been unable to come to an agreement with the state highway department on the amount of damages to be paid.

The board will view the damages May 16, according to the order of the court.

George A. Hughes was appointed constable for the first ward of Gettysburg by the court to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Chief of Police Glenn Guise from the post when he was called into service with the U. S. Marines. Two other men had been seeking the post, Borough officer Clark Staley and Victor Palmer. The decision of the court was made following a hearing on the petitions.

Charles Utz, who had presented a petition as constable in the second ward was allowed to withdraw the petition after his attorney had asked that permission, stating that Mr. Utz believed he would be unable to properly fill the constable post because of an increase in barbering business.

Joseph John Grincavage, flight instructor at the Gettysburg airport, was permitted to change his name to Joseph John Gage, following a hearing on the matter. His name was difficult for most people to pronounce and spell, he told the court, and his brother had previously officially changed his last name to Gage.

Moscow, April 22 (AP)—Russia's Crimean Armies and the Red fleet have massed at Sevastopol "to fling the enemy into the sea," Red Fleet Correspondent Lt. Dimitri Nijolaev reported today as Soviet forces tightened their siege on the great naval base.

The Russians have captured hills dominating the city's approaches, the correspondent wrote, and are storming one pass after another despite German long-range guns and strafing and bombing attacks by the enemy's air forces which have put down a "screen of fire" in the mountains.

In the southeastern section of old Poland, today's communique said Red Army artillerymen, pouring a hurricane of fire into charging masses of German tanks and infantry, again threw back powerful German thrusts as the battle raging east of Stanislawow spread through the Carpathian foothills.

Hand-To-Hand Encounters

In fierce fighting that also repeatedly took the shape of hand-to-hand encounters, the Germans lost 1,500 in killed alone on the third day of the battle yesterday and anti-tank gunners destroyed 68 tanks in beating back Panzer assaults, the bulletin declared.

A front dispatch said the Germans, using the flooded Prut and Dniestr rivers to guard their flanks, had thrown a great weight of men and machines down the intervening valley in a drive apparently aimed at relieving Soviet pressure on Lwow, big communications center 65 miles northwest of Stanislawow and 45 miles west of the nearest Russian forces.

(A Berlin broadcast, possibly providing a clue to the current German attacks, asserted that huge Red Army reserves were flowing through the Ukraine into a 250-mile sector of the Polish front between the upper Dniestr and the Pripyat marshes in prelude to fresh Russian assaults along the most direct invasion route to Berlin.

Gen. Von Mannstein Replaced

(A Berlin dispatch to a Swedish newspaper said Marshal Fritz Eric Von Mannstein had been replaced as commander in the Carpathian sector by Gen. Modl, comparatively unknown. The dispatch gave no indication as to where Von Mannstein had been shifted.)

The Soviet communique contained no mention of the fighting around besieged Sevastopol, but front dispatches said the Red Army lines had edged nearer to the sea and that German and Romanian divisional remnants, deserted by their commanders, were fighting each other in an effort to grab ship passage out of the big Crimean port.

The dispatches said Soviet warships and bombers continued to thwart evacuation attempts and quoted returning pilots as saying they saw many bodies floating in the Black sea after their escape craft had been sent to the bottom.

YANKEE NAVAL FORCE HELPED POUND SUMATRA

Southwest Asia Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, April 22 (AP)—A United States Navy carrier force participated in the Allied raid at dawn April 19 against northern Sumatra, it was announced officially today.

American, British, French and Dutch naval units cooperated in the operation. Speedy Navy planes, 80 per cent of them American-made, hopped off from American and British carriers and carried out a successful surprise attack against Japanese installations at Sabang island and the nearby Lhonga airfield.

Screened Carriers
The carriers were screened by British and French battleships and lighter units of the British, Dutch and U. S. navies, it was announced. British tonnage predominated in the naval fleet although 65 per cent of the planes were star-spangled American Hellcats and Dauntless Avengers while Corsairs flown by the British were American-made and carried United States-trained British fliers. Also in the air were British Barracudas.

By J. K. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor
The early outlines of a grand-scale naval pincer against the Japanese empire came into clearer focus today with disclosure of the successful British-American fleet-borne air attack on Sumatra last Wednesday.

As the Times of London put it, a new chapter in the Asiatic war opened in the coordinated assault of American, British, French and Dutch war craft against Lhonga airfield on the northwest tip of Sumatra and the nearby island of Sabang.

Major Theatre
"Until now the American Navy has borne almost the entire burden of the Allied naval offensive against Japanese seapower," the Times said. "With this well-planned attack the main British eastern fleet, now built up to formidable strength, enters the scene and the Indian ocean becomes a theatre of major conflicts."

On the Pacific side the other arm of the pincers is the formidable American fleet, so spoiling for battle with the enemy high-seas armada that it has raided positions within 600 miles of the Philippines. Yesterday both Central and Southwest Pacific headquarters reported the continuance of the unceasing offensive. Planes attacked the familiar targets of Wake, Ponape, the Marshalls, the Carolines, Geelvink bay on New Guinea and Rabaul.

For 15 furious minutes carrier planes poured explosives on the Sumatra base, wrecking planes, ships, docks, oil tanks and other objectives. Twenty-five enemy planes were destroyed and anti-aircraft resistance was ineffective.

Old Complaint Is Terminated By PUC

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP)—An eight-year-old complaint proceeding against the Railway Express Agency, Inc., New York, has been terminated by the Public Utility Commission "without prejudice to its reopening when the present abnormal conditions have settled into a pattern which may be regarded as more than temporary."

The complaint was started to determine whether the company violated utility law in operation of a motor truck pickup and delivery service in less than carload lots.

Mrs. Luce Questions War Training Policy

Columbus, O., April 22 (AP)—Congressional Clare Boothe Luce told a Republican women's convention here she would like to know whether Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's espousal of peace-time compulsory military training for American youth indicated a White House fear that national security would be threatened in the post-war era.

Addressing the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Organizations at their annual banquet last night, she said it was only after the Allied conferences at Teheran and Cairo that Mrs. Roosevelt began out-right advocacy of compulsory military training for all American boys and girls.

Discussing Mrs. Roosevelt's plea for military training, she said: "Perhaps we have been given unwittingly a key to the puzzle. A clue to what the President, after Teheran, thinks is in store for post-war America."

Asks Public Hearings In Censorship Probe

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Censorship Director Byron Price today urged that hearings in connection with any Congressional investigation of wartime censorship be opened to the public.

Price made that suggestion in comment on the action of Senator Reed (R., Kan.) in submitting to the Senate yesterday a resolution to authorize the Senate Post Office committee to inquire into the operations of censorship "with particular reference to the use and unauthorized disclosure of information obtained through such censorship."

Said Price: "I'll be glad to cooperate and place before the committee the results of an investigation begun by the Office of Censorship nearly three months ago. I hope the committee sessions will be public."

MIGHTY ALLIED RAID ON REICH IN FIFTH DAY

By W. W. HERCHER

London, April 22 (AP)—The Allies' biggest aerial offensive plunged on into the fifth day with waves of heavy bombers and fighters winging over the channel this morning after a night strike against burning Cologne by RAF Mosquitoes.

The morning flights soared out even as Allied headquarters in Naples was announcing a blow by Liberators Friday against strategic Balkan railway yards at Bucharest and Turnu Severin 170 miles west of the Romanian capital. Thirty-five Nazi planes were wrecked, while the Mediterranean air force lost eight heavy bombers and nine other planes in all its flights Friday.

All the Mosquitoes returned safely from the Cologne raid, as did other planes that laid "many mines," the air ministry said.

"There was no indication of the force of the Mosquito attack, but the RAF sometimes has sent more than 50 of the wooden bombers loaded with two-ton blockbusters against similar targets."

Cologne Burning

Cologne, one of the most important railroad center of western Germany, still was afire yesterday from 1,800 tons of bombs poured on it by British Lancasters and Halifaxes Thursday night in a 5,000-ton assault against four key rail centers.

Mosquitoes now have ranged over Germany 11 nights this month, bombing Cologne and Berlin thrice and Hannover twice.

U. S. medium and light bombers hammered the invasion coast of France by daylight yesterday, and U. S. 9th air force a double fighter-bombers staged a pronged attack on Belgian railway yards in the morning and afternoon's all the Thunderbolts returned safely.

An air ministry report declared British and American air raids have destroyed more than 100 war plants in Frankfurt and devastated more than half of the 2,200 acres making up its administrative and commercial heart.

Only two or three of Frankfurt's war factories remain undamaged, pictures taken after heavy attacks of March 18, 20, and 24 showed.

HITLER'S PAPER WARNS OF HARD FIGHTING AHEAD

Stockholm, April 22 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, bluntly warned the German homefront today that it will be confronted this summer or even this spring by the hardest and bloodiest battles of history.

Picturing the probability of a western invasion launched simultaneously with a new Russian offensive, the newspaper indirectly hinted that new territorial losses might be expected with this answer as to how the German command will meet another Soviet offensive:

"There are territories which can be given up even if it should hurt, but there are others which must be held at any price."

"This summer may be the last, bloody war summer," it went on.

"Before May 1"

Bjorn Bjornson, NBC reporter in Stockholm, broadcast a prediction today that the Allied invasion will come some time before the first of May. This prediction, he said, is being widely circulated in the Swedish capital on the basis of these factors:

(1) That the period of the greatest tides will occur within the next 10 days, and these tides would facilitate Allied landing operations.

(2) There has been a lull in ground fighting, while the Russians mass their forces along the eastern front, and the Allies, reportedly, move reinforcements onto the Anzio beachhead.

(3) The overpowering Allied air assaults aimed at the invasion defenses and the supply points behind the line.

Walsh said the operations are being carried on by the Morgan mining company.

Patrolman Edward Armitage, one of the officers who accompanied Walsh to the scene following the cave last night, sank up to his knees when the loosened ground gave way.

The cave, which did not affect the Desalvo house, is five feet across and 30 to 40 feet deep.

YANKEE NAVAL FORCE HELPED POUND SUMATRA

Southeast Asia Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, April 22 (AP)—A United States Navy carrier force participated in the Allied raid at dawn April 19 against northern Sumatra, it was announced officially today.

American, British, French and Dutch naval units cooperated in the operation. Speedy Navy planes, 80 per cent of them American-made, hopped off from American and British carriers and carried out a successful surprise attack against Japanese installations at Sabang island and the nearby Lhonga airfield.

Screened Carriers

The carriers were screened by British and French battleships and lighter units of the British, Dutch and U. S. navies, it was announced. British tonnage predominated in the naval fleet although 65 per cent of the planes were star-spangled American Hellcats and Dauntless Avengers while Corsairs flown by the British were American-made and carried United States-trained British fliers. Also in the air were British Barracudas.

By J. K. KRUEGER

Associated Press War Editor
The early outlines of a grand-scale naval pincer against the Japanese empire came into clearer focus today with disclosure of the successful British air attack on Sumatra last Wednesday.

As the Times of London put it, a new chapter in the Asiatic war opened in the coordinated assault of American, British, French and Dutch war craft against Lhonga airfield on the northwest tip of Sumatra and the nearby island of Sabang.

Major Theatre

"Until now the American Navy has borne almost the entire burden of the Allied naval offensive against Japanese seapower," the Times said. "With this . . . well-planned attack the main British eastern fleet, now built up to formidable strength, enters the scene and the Indian ocean becomes a theatre of major conflicts."

On the Pacific side the other arm of the pincers is the formidable American fleet, so spoiling for battle with the enemy high-seas armada that it has raided positions within 600 miles of the Philippines. Yesterday both Central and Southwest Pacific headquarters reported the continuance of the unceasing offensive. Planes attacked the familiar targets of Wake, Ponape, the Marshalls, the Carolines, Geelvink bay on New Guinea and Rabaul.

For 15 furious minutes carrier planes poured explosives on the Sumatra base, wrecking planes, ships, docks, oil tanks and other objectives. Twenty-five enemy planes were destroyed and anti-aircraft resistance was ineffective.

Old Complaint Is Terminated By PUC

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP)—An eight-year-old complaint proceeding against the Railway Express Agency, Inc., New York, has been terminated by the Public Utility Commission "without prejudice to its reopening when the present abnormal conditions have settled into a pattern which may be regarded as more than temporary."

The complaint was started to determine whether the company violated utility law in operation of a motor truck pickup and delivery service in less than carload lots.

Mrs. Luce Questions War Training Policy

Columbus, O., April 22 (AP)—Congressional Clare Boothe Luce told a Republican women's convention here she would like to know whether Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's espousal of peace-time compulsory military training for American youth indicated a White House fear that national security would be threatened in the post-war era.

Addressing the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Organization at their annual banquet last night, she said it was only after the Allied conferences at Teheran and Cairo that Mrs. Roosevelt began outright advocacy of compulsory military training for all American boys and girls.

Discussing Mrs. Roosevelt's plea for military training, she said: "Perhaps we have been given unwittingly a key to the puzzle. A clue to what the President, after Teheran, thinks is in store for post-war America."

"We think we have a very liberal program," added State Republican Chairman M. Harvey Taylor. "We feel we have gone the whole way to afford everyone in the armed services the opportunity of voting."

Asks Public Hearings In Censorship Probe

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Censorship Director Byron Price today urged that hearings in connection with any Congressional investigation of wartime censorship be opened to the public.

Price made that suggestion in comment on the action of Senator Reed (R., Kan.) in submitting to the Senate yesterday a resolution to authorize the Senate Post Office committee to inquire into the operations of censorship "with particular reference to the use and unauthorized disclosure of information obtained through such censorship."

Said Price: "I'll be glad to cooperate and place before the committee the results of an investigation begun by the Office of Censorship nearly three months ago. I hope the committee sessions will be public."

MIGHTY ALLIED RAID ON REICH IN FIFTH DAY

By W. W. HERCHER

London, April 22 (AP)—The Allies' biggest aerial offensive plunged on into the fifth day with waves of heavy bombers and fighters winging over the channel this morning after a night strike against burning Cologne by RAF Mosquitoes.

The morning flights soared out even as Allied headquarters in Naples was announcing a blow by Liberators Friday against strategic Balkan railway yards at Bucharest and Turnu Severin 170 miles west of the Romanian capital. Thirty-five Nazi planes were wrecked, while the Mediterranean air force lost eight heavy bombers and nine other planes in all its flights Friday.

All the Mosquitoes returned safely from the Cologne raid, as did other planes that laid "many mines," the air ministry said.

There was no indication of the force of the Mosquito attack, but the RAF sometimes has sent more than 50 of the wooden bombers loaded with two-ton blockbusters against similar targets.

Cologne Burning

Cologne, one of the most important railroad center of western Germany, still was afire yesterday from 1,800 tons of bombs poured on it by British Lancasters and Halifaxes Thursday night in a 5,000-ton assault against four key rail centers.

Mosquitoes now have ranged over Germany 11 nights this month, bombing Cologne and Berlin three and Hannover twice.

U. S. medium and light bombers hammered the invasion coast of France by daylight yesterday, and U. S. 9th air force thunderbolt fighter-bombers staged a double pronged attack on Belgian railway yards in the morning and afternoon's all the Thunderbolts returned safely.

An air ministry report declared British and American air raids have destroyed more than 100 war plants in Frankfurt and devastated more than half of the 2,200 acres making up its administrative and commercial heart.

Only two or three of Frankfurt's war factories remain undamaged, pictures taken after heavy attacks of March 18, 20, and 24 showed.

HITLER'S PAPER WARNS OF HARD FIGHTING AHEAD

Stockholm, April 22 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, bluntly warned the German homefront today that it will be confronted this summer or even this spring by the hardest and bloodiest battles of history.

Picturing the probability of a western invasion launched simultaneously with a new Russian offensive, the newspaper indirectly hinted that new territorial losses might be expected with this answer as to how the German command will meet another Soviet offensive.

"There are territories which can be given up even if it should hurt, but there are others which must be held at any price."

"This summer may be the last, bloody war summer," it went on.

"Before May 1"

Bjorn Bjornson, NBC reporter in Stockholm, broadcast a prediction today that the Allied invasion will come some time before the first of May. This prediction, he said, is being widely circulated in the Swedish capital on the basis of these factors:

- (1) That the period of the greatest tides will occur within the next 10 days, and these tides would facilitate Allied landing operations.
- (2) There has been a lull in ground fighting, while the Russians mass their forces along the eastern front, and the Allies, reportedly, move reinforcements onto the Anzio beachhead.
- (3) The overpowering Allied air assaults aimed at the invasion defenses and the supply points behind the line.

New Mine Cave-In Found In Pittston

Pittston, Pa., April 22 (AP)—A new mine cave in front of Anthony Desalvo's house disclosed today, Police Sergeant Thomas A. Walsh said, that an anthracite company is mining within 18 inches of the surface.

Walsh said the operations are being carried on by the Morgan mining company.

Patrolman Edward Armitage, one of the officers who accompanied Walsh to the scene following the cave last night, sank up to his knees when the loosened ground gave way.

The cave, which did not affect the Desalvo house, is five feet across and 30 to 40 feet deep.

MAROONS CRUSH WAYNESBORO HI IN MEET 96-20

Coach Melvin Dry's Gettysburg high school track team opened its schedule in promising style Friday afternoon by crushing Waynesboro high here in a dual meet 96-20.

The Maroons took 12 first places in the 13 events, sweeping all places in the 110-yard low hurdles, mile run, half-mile run and discus. Mitchell won the pole vault for Waynesboro's only first place.

Outstanding performers for the Maroons were Russ Howard and Fred Heatwole.

Howard won the high jump, 220 discus and was a member of the winning half-mile relay team. Heatwole took the 100-yard dash, the 440-yard run and placed second in the 220-yard dash.

Waynesboro presented an entire green outfit while the Maroons had but one letterman, Pat McGlaughlin, who won the shotput and 110-yard hurdle.

Coach Dry stated today that several of his boys are low in their studies and unless improvement is shown soon they will be lost to the team.

Next Friday the Maroons journey to Carlisle for a dual meet and Coach Dry has indicated several changes are likely to be made in the local lineup.

"ROVING" TEAM IN PRO LEAGUE MAY BE EAGLES

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—After three long days of meetings, during which they weren't even certain how many teams they would have next fall, the national Football League club owners have definitely settled on an 11-club circuit for 1944 and have figured out a method of drawing up a workable schedule.

Rumors of withdrawals or mergers were set to rest last night when all 11 clubs, including one newcomer since last season, the Boston Yankees definitely announced their intention to operate independently. Then, to balance up a schedule for an uneven number of teams, the owners hit upon the scheme of designating one eastern club as a "rover" which would not be required to play home-and-home games against the other clubs in its division.

The definite decision to adopt this plan, first proposed at the Chicago meeting last January by Ralph Brizzolara of the Chicago Bears, and the designation of the club for the roving assignment were postponed until today, when the club owners hope to adopt a final schedule. When they adjourned at 1:30 a. m. today, the Philadelphia Eagles appeared most likely to be named as "Rover." Whatever club is chosen will be given virtually a free hand in scheduling its games.

The plan would work out this way: Five clubs in each division would play home-and-home games in their own section, plus a few inter-divisional contests to complete a 10 or 11 game program. The sixth eastern club would play once against each of the other 10, with one extra game if an 11-game schedule is settled upon.

Before reaching the schedule last night, the league, outlawed post-season exhibition games by the teams and sharply limited individual participation by players in such

No Title At Stake For Bob Montgomery

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—Bob Montgomery will have to leave his world lightweight boxing championship in New York when he comes to Chicago for a 10-round bout April 28 with Joey Peralta.

Montgomery, recognized in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania as titleholder, is listed as a challenger for the crown held by Juan Zurita by the National Boxing association. And Illinois is a member of the N.B.A. and, naturally, recognizes its ratings.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—Today's Philadelphia story: If Don Hutson tries another comeback with the Green Bay Packers next fall, it will be because he finds the business of being a coach too strenuous.

When Don pulled out last night after three strenuous days of meetings and lobby sitting, he remarked: "I'm going back and look for something easy like a couple of games with the Bears."

Judging by current standings, the experts who picked the Yankees and Cardinals as pennant winners had the right cities but the wrong leagues.

Jim Leonard, who'll be back with the Pittsburgh Steelers this year after helping out at Holy Cross last fall, owns one of America's biggest asparagus farms at Mullica Hill, N. J.

And they say it brings him plenty of lettuce.

ON THE RECORDS

Charley Murray, the Buffalo promoter who is a visitor here, tells this yarn about the time years ago when he sent a boy named Donaldson to fight at Erie, Pa.

In those days, the papers used to run the fighters' recent records and, since Donaldson never had fought professionally, Murray fixed up an impressive list of knockouts for them to print.

The boy won and collected his $50, but the next day he appeared looking for more dough.

"Didn't they pay you?" Murray asked.

Donaldson said yes, but he thought a fighter of his ability should get more money.

"Why?" demanded Charley.

The kid reached into his pocket and pulled out a clipping.

"Just look at my record," he exclaimed.

A ROOKIE A DAY

Ed Klieman, Indians pitcher: The first pitcher in organized baseball to reach the 20-victory mark in 1943.

He won 23 for Baltimore, but when the Indians brought him up for a late season trial, he blanked the Red Sox for nine innings, then lost in the tenth, 1-0.

Entered organized baseball from the Cincinnati sandlots as an outfielder, but switched to pitching because of poor sight.

ONE-MINUTE SPORT PAGE

The Phillies farmhands at Wilmington are being offered full or part-time jobs in war plants there.

Charley Bidwill, the Chicago Cards' owner, stumbled onto a hold-up in downtown Philadelphia early yesterday, and when he turned up at the football meeting, the other club owners called a recess to hear him tell about the "punks with cannons."

Pete Cawthon, Jr., who was quite a quarterback at Oklahoma, was on the pro draft list but even his dad wouldn't pick him.

Reason is that he'll go back to study petroleum engineering after he leaves the Army.

John Carmichael, roving sports editor of the Chicago Daily News, is on his way to the South Pacific to be a war correspondent and to recover from the strain of remaining in Chicago for a couple of months at one stretch.

The Pampa, Tex., high school track team will get some expert advice this spring from Lieut. Roger Terwilliger, 1942 national decathlon champion, who is flying instructor at Pampa air field.

Lieut. Comm. George Halas, the Chicago Bears' boss, has reached New Guinea, where he has taken over the duties of Jim Crowley, now on his way home.

Navy Loses Huge Flying Boat At Sea

Washington, April 22 (AP)—The Navy has reported the loss of a big Navy flying boat at sea in the Caribbean area. Fourteen crew members and passengers are missing and the 15th person aboard the plane, a crew member, is dead.

The plane, a Catalina, crashed at sea April 6, while on a routine flight. Fourteen survivors and the body of the crew member were picked up by a merchant vessel the following day.

Ace Adams of the New York Giants and Mike Kreevich of the St. Louis Browns, the two early pace setting clubs, can mark up 1944 as a successful season in their personal record books right now before the first week of the schedule has been completed.

The ace has pitched and won as many complete games as he did all last season . . . total one. Kreevich has hit twice as many home runs as he did in the last three campaigns . . . total two.

Adams set a new National league record by appearing in 70 contests last year but Mel Ott didn't trust him with a starting assignment until he was hard pressed before the second game of a doubleheader with the Phillies on Sept. 12.

Yesterday he took the hill to spoil Brooklyn's home opening as the Giants made it four straight wins by a 3-2 margin.

Bashes Two Homers

Kreevich broke into the Brownies lineup only because Jimmy Dykes was using Thornton Lee, a left-hander, against them but he bashed two circuit clouts while St. Louis was thumping Chicago, 5-3, for its fourth in a row. He hit only one in 1942 and none at all in the big show in either 1941 or 1943.

Sophomore Pat Seery, who is trying to make a job for himself in Cleveland's outfield, helped himself along with a three-run homer as the tribe walloped Detroit, 7-4. The paid attendance at Cleveland's home opener was 13,643, best of the second inaugurals which totalled 43,685 in five cities.

Washington at New York, and Boston at Philadelphia were washed out in the American as was the Phillies at Boston tilt in the national.

Over-optimistic Giants fans might do well to cast an eye at the defending champions the Cardinals, who likewise are unbeaten, but have won only three. Billy Southworth has been getting the kind of pitching that goes with champs, two shutouts in three games, the latest being Lefty Harry Brecheen's 4-0 job against Chicago yesterday.

Brecheen and Paul Derringer went down the line in a 0-0 game for seven frames until Slat Marion hoisted a homer in the Card eighth.

After Derringer was removed for a pinch hitter the Birds hopped on Johnny Burrows and Paul Erickson for three more in the ninth.

Joe Beggs goes into the Navy as a lieutenant, j.g. next Thursday but he's making good use of his spare time pitching for Cincinnati, as in yesterday's 4-2 triumph over Pittsburgh's Rip Sewell, a 21-game winner last year.

Asks Farmers To Free Corn Holdings

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—Midwest farmers were urged today by a War Food Administration official to release immediately a share of their corn holdings to meet the "urgent requirements" of the processing industry and to solve "a very serious war problem for the immediate future."

E. O. Pollock, midwest regional director of food distribution, WFA, asserted the corn is needed for producing critically important war materials and that failure of farmers to move the grain to market will "jeopardize the successful prosecution of the war."

"The corn processing industry needs about 11 million bushels of corn every month—only about four per cent of the 1943 production—for the manufacture of a large variety of critical war materials," Pollock said in his appeal to midwest farmers.

The WFA official said that corn is needed for the manufacture of weapons, medicines, clothing, packaging and other materials for the Army and Navy.

Free Lance Miners Picketing Roads

Shamokin, Pa., April 22 (AP)—An estimated 1,200 free lance coal miners were called out by their leaders for a second day today to picket strip mining operations of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company in Northumberland county in what a miner spokesman said was a protest against a ban on independent mining.

Arthur Brown, president of the Trevelton Independent Miners and Breakers Association, said the miners had decided to blockade mountain roads to stripping operations until a "definite agreement is reached" between the association and the company to permit free lance operations to resume.

MAY INCREASE HOLDING TAXES

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY
Washington, April 22 (AP)—The House Ways and Means committee put finishing touches today on a bill to free some 30,000,000 taxpayers from the annual chore of computing annual returns, including a new system of withholding levies against wages and salaries.

Higher for most taxpayers, the new withholding levels, if finally written into law by Congress, would collect the full tax liability of persons earning up to $5,000 annually.

Under plans of the committee the new schedules would become effective next January 1. There would be no changes in amounts held out of pay envelopes and salary checks this year.

The committee planned to consider the withholding tables today, and Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) expressed hope that the bill could be presented to the House next week.

Not only would 30,000,000 be relieved of computing returns he said, but the other 20,000,000 income taxpayers would be given relief by simplified procedures of tax computation.

ALLIES MASS STRENGTH FOR PACIFIC BLOWS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst
With the European war verging on the climatic amphibious invasion—an operation which will call for a greater mass of sea and air equipment than ever before employed—it's a heartening circumstance that the Allies have the strength in southeastern Asia to stage Wednesday's naval-aerial assault on the northwest point of Sumatra and on neighboring Sabang.

Until very recently it hadn't been expected that the Allies would show so much striking-power in the Indian ocean this side of the invasion of France. The answer seems to be that the Anglo-American partnership has run ahead of its anticipations in the way of building for the sea and air navies. At least that's part of the answer, but it must be said that there also figures in the picture the weakening of Japanese naval and aerial power as a result of the continual Allied successes in the central and southwest Pacific.

Strength To Strike

Now lest this give too rosy a hue to the situation in the Asiatic theatre, it should be said at once that the attack on Sumatra wasn't a major operation. It required major strength because it was an adventure into supposedly strongly held enemy waters, but the action itself wasn't in the big league class.

It caused great damage to Japanese port facilities, shipping and aircraft, but its chief importance lies in the fact that Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten was able to stage it at all.

We also should note that this raid doesn't necessarily presage any major amphibious operations by Mountbatten in the immediate future. Another three weeks or so will see the start of the monsoon season, which will raise hob with land and sea until fall, making landing operations extremely precarious if not impossible. Furthermore, while we know the admiral has both sea and air strength, we don't know that he has the landing equipment necessary for big scale invasion.

See More Sorties

In any event, even if he is capable of undertaking amphibious tasks, one wouldn't expect him to do more than try to oust the Japanese from the small Nicobar and Andaman islands. They lie across the path between his base on Ceylon and both Burma and the Malay peninsula, and must be occupied before any invasion of the mainland behind them is attempted.

However, the approach of the monsoon and a possible lack of landing equipment do not mean that the Allied command in southeast Asia must sit down and twiddle its thumbs. On the contrary one would expect Mountbatten to make further sorties with his warships and carrier based warplanes.

By taking his fleet so close to Indonesian waters the commander in chief has challenged the Nipponese in a strategic theatre which they must hold at all costs. The surprise raid on Sumatra, which undoubtedly has come as a shock to them will compel them to maintain strong naval and air defense in that zone, and this at a time when they are up to their necks in trouble with the MacArthur-Nimitz commands in the central and Southwest Pacific.

In short, the Japanese would seem to be up against an Allied game of divide and conquer.

Coach Melvin Dry's Gettysburg high school track team opened its schedule in promising style Friday afternoon by crushing Waynesboro high here in a dual meet 96-20.

The Maroons took 12 first places in the 13 events, sweeping all places in the 110-yard low hurdles, mile run, half-mile run and discus. Mitchell won the pole vault for Waynesboro's only first place.

"ROVING" TEAM IN PRO LEAGUE MAY BE EAGLES

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR., Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—After three long days of meetings, during which they weren't even certain how many teams they would have next fall, the national Football League club owners have definitely settled on an 11-club circuit for 1944 and have figured out a method of drawing up a workable schedule.

Rumors of withdrawals or mergers were set to rest last night when all 11 clubs, including one newcomer since last season, the Boston Yankees definitely announced their intention to operate independently. Then, to balance up a schedule for an uneven number of teams, the owners hit upon the scheme of designating one eastern club as a "rover" which would not be required to play home-and-home games against the other clubs in its division.

The definite decision to adopt this plan, first proposed at the Chicago meeting last January by Ralph Brizolara of the Chicago Bears, and the designation of the club for the roving assignment were postponed until today, when the club owners hope to adopt a final schedule. When they adjourned at 1:30 a. m. today, the Philadelphia Eagles appeared most likely to be named as "Rover." Whatever club is chosen will be given virtually a free hand in scheduling its games.

The plan would work out this way:

Five clubs in each division would play home-and-home games in their own section, plus a few inter-divisional contests to complete a 10 or 11 game program. The sixth eastern club would play once against each of the other 10, with one extra game if an 11-game schedule is settled upon.

Before reaching the schedule last night, the league outlawed post-season exhibition games by the teams and sharply limited individual participation by players in such

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—Today's Philadelphia story: If Don Hutson tries another comeback with the Green Bay Packers next fall, it will be because he finds the business of being a coach too strenuous. When Don pulled out last night after three strenuous days of meetings and lobby sitting, he remarked: "I'm going back and look for something easy like a couple of games with the Bears." Judging by current standings, the experts who picked the Yankees and Cardinals as pennant winners had the right cities but the wrong leagues.

Charley Murray, the Buffalo promoter who is a visitor here, tells this yarn about the time years ago when he sent a boy named Donaldson to fight at Erie, Pa. . . . In those days, the papers used to run the fighters' recent records and, since Donaldson never had fought professionally, Murray fixed up an impressive list of knockouts for them to print. The boy won and collected his $50, but the next day he appeared looking for more dough. "Didn't they pay you?" Murray asked. . . . Donaldson said yes, but he thought a fighter of his ability should get more money. . . . "Why?" demanded Charley. . . . The kid reached into his pocket and pulled out a clipping. . . . "Just look at my record," he exclaimed.

MAY INCREASE HOLDING TAXES

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY

Washington, April 22 (AP)—The House Ways and Means committee put finishing touches today on a bill to free some 30,000,000 taxpayers from the annual chore of computing annual returns, including a new system of withholding levies against wages and salaries.

Higher for most taxpayers, the new withholding levels, if finally written into law by Congress, would collect the full tax liability of persons earning up to $5,000 annually.

Riding with Russell

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL, Member S. A. E.

A very good place to miss your train is at a grade crossing.
The gums that form in an engine come not merely from stale gasoline but also from the "frying" of lubricating oil on heated parts. Outside of the engine along the fuel route there are plenty of spots where gums form, lowering the efficiency of such vital parts as the fuel pump and the carburetor. In the engine itself gums from fuel can affect the smooth flow of gas vapor through the intake manifold, and of course it causes valve and ring stickage. But the valves and rings are further subjected to the gumming of fried oil. This particular brand of gumming is usually referred to as engine "varnish" because it is inclined to harden. I have known of cases where engines actually ceased running when such varnish became excessive.
The remedy? Well, it's a matter of using gum solvents faithfully. Use the car wisely so that gasoline doesn't get stale and gums form.
Finishing The Job
The post-service procedure on cast iron and aluminum heads differs in one important point that too often is overlooked by those who try to do their own carbon cleaning. I refer to the matter of tightening the head nuts. On a cast iron head the secondary tightening is done after the engine has been run and is still warm. With an aluminum head the engine is given a warming up but the retightening of the head nuts is not done until the engine has cooled off.
A student of Unity says that while she is waiting for the engine to warm up she always offers a prayer that during the day's travel she can avoid accidents by constant vigilance and consideration for the rights and welfare of others. She used this policy as the basis of an article on the spiritual values, but I do not believe she realizes how effective she unconsciously makes her plan by the fact that she talks with God while doing something that paves the way for answering of her prayers. A properly warmed up engine is a positive safeguard, yet how many drivers consider it as a safety step? Isn't it true that most of us impatiently head into the traffic stream with engines that are not yet ready to deliver power and performance needed for meeting emergencies? How can we expect prayer to be answered if we start the day's motoring blindly and without even the cooperation of lifting the hood for a simple inspection?
Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"I never get too excited when an engine misses at all speeds because the trouble is so broad I have a chance to think of a lot of odd causes that may turn out to be the right answer."
"For instance, the missing may

Miss Catherine Chamberlain entertained Miss Virginia Jones, Miss Helen Fidler, Miss Rachel Everhart and Miss Evelyn Chamberlain at her home at The Tavern, Thursday evening in honor of her birthday anniversary.
Miss Dorothy Meyer, Baltimore street, a student at Wilson college, Chambersburg, has been elected president of the junior class there.
Murray B. Frazee, Jr., Baltimore street, spent Sunday with Donald Mc C. Swope at John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore.
Miss Mary R. Musselman returned to her home on Baltimore street after spending several weeks in New York City and New Haven, Connecticut.
The annual junior prom was held Saturday evening at the high school building.
Charles Ott, Springs avenue, has gone to Pittsburgh for a visit with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Thrush.
Simply mean that the gas mixture is too rich because there is too much oil in the oil-bath type of air cleaner. Or there may be loose intake manifold nuts which lean out the mixture continually. I've seen a clogged muffler do it, or a pinched tail pipe. One that is always worth considering in the case of an engine with dual carburetion is lack of synchronization between the two throttle valves.
Some night when lifting the hood to inspect the running engine you may be mystified at sight of a spark around the coil, hazy purplish in color. It will also be marked by silence. Its color and its silence are merely proof that what you will be seeing is a normal static discharge. The more powerful the coil the greater the discharge. If the coil really were shorting through its insulation and cover the sparking would be more whitish in hue and there would be the characteristic snapping of a real short.
Three To Remember
If you see gasoline around the vent hole in the fuel pump body it means that there is a punctured or worn diaphragm. Pump output will be well below normal until the diaphragm is replaced.
It is extremely difficult to set brake shoes for the proper clearance unless the drums are true. When they are warped out of round naturally the shoes will drag if given the normally close clearance for best results.
Where an engine repeatedly fouls a few of its spark plugs, and if it is equipped with a fuel pump carrying a vacuum booster for the windshield, always suspect the diaphragm of the vacuum pump. If it is punctured it will allow oil to suck up into the cylinders nearest the point where the suction tube is attached to the intake manifold.
Sign of the month along service road reads, "Limp In—Leap Out" ... You'd be surprised how many service stations are not half as busy as they've been reported to be ... The biggest trouble with cars today continues to be their bad handling ... Check for yourself at any traffic light or where drivers try to park their cars ... There's less difficulty getting parts in many quarters, and many owners are discovering that with a few changes slightly different parts can be made to fit ... Champions of steam cars are again drumming up interest in this type of propulsion for post-war use.
Warm Engine The Trick
One of the automobile clubs double checked a test made to show that special pills put into the gasoline tank would result in improved gas mileage. It was a bit suspicious of the rosy claims made by the makers of such gas "boosters" and was particularly skeptical of the usual business of making a "test" with regular gasoline and then with the doped gas. Apparently it has discovered the secret of the seeming benefits of such pills, for it has revealed that a typical test was made with the engine cold where regular gas was used and warm where the pills were used in the gas.

More important than the discovered deception is the proof of the importance of warm engine operation. If owners would try to arrange their car errands in series rather than in disconnected jumps they would see a marked improvement in miles per gallon.
While it is true that a front tire worn cupped will set up a rumbling noise that sounds for all the world like a bad rear end condition there is one further fact that marks the difference between tire noise and the rear axle variety. Where front tires are involved invariably there is vibration at the instrument panel in addition to the rumble.
Having Their Troubles
Q. Is there anything I can do about removing aluminum cylinder heads which corrode or stick to the block? R. M. S.
A. There is a new tool on the market known as a corrosion cutter. The mechanic simply removes the nuts from the head studs, puts a drop of oil on each stud to oil the tool and then runs the tool down clockwise over each stud by hand (except the guide studs) until the tool reaches the cylinder block at the base of the head. The tool simply cuts and removes corrosion from around the studs.
Q. There is a small leak at the bottom of the gas tank of my car. Would it be safe for me to remove the tank from the car and solder it? H. L. S.
A. Due to the difficulty of expelling all gas fumes from the tank this is dangerous work. Take the job to an expert in this sort of service.
Q. Even after new rings have been installed the engine of my car uses too much oil. There are no signs of leakage. The spark plugs are tight. What would account for the poor mileage? J. S. D.
A. It is quite likely that the engine bearing inserts should have been replaced. Worn inserts allow excessive amounts of oil to fly off the bearings and overlubricate the cylinder walls. Also it is possible that the cylinders should have been rebored. If the rings are backed with expanders worn ring grooves will allow the oil to suck up behind the rings.
Q. It is true that recapped tires are likely to throw the tires out of balance and make for noisy rolling or perhaps front wheel shimmy? W. N.
A. I have heard many reports of recaps making tires run more smoothly. When a tread is worn

An Evening Thought

An undivided heart, which worships God alone, and trusts Him as it should, is raised above all anxiety for earthly wants.—Geklie.

Just Folks

QUESTION

When death is raining from the skies

And doomed are dome and temple spire;

When many a wall in rubble lies

And all is food for fury's fire;

When best and worst for warfare plan,

What must the good Lord think of man?

Was it for this God gave him breath,

And loosed from instinct's grip his mind,

Merely to strew the world with death,

To leave his fellows maimed and blind?

Was man a thinking creature made

That slaughter might become his trade?

Gifted with reason, mirth and song;

Pity for suffering; grace and skill,

Mankind, throughout the ages long,

Has used his every art to kill.

Was it for this God made man wise

And let him learn to ride the skies?

Today's Talk

GOD'S INSTITUTIONS

The Psalmist, looking into the starry heavens, overwhelmed by its magnificence and mystery, and undoubtedly feeling his own insignificance, exclaimed: "What is Man!" Indeed, who of us today cannot exclaim as well?

How little we know of God's institutions—many of which we pass and ignore, day in and day out. Walt Whitman exclaimed that he was immense. You see he didn't sit in his cottage all day long, but wandered and wandered. The immensity of all creation, all beauty, all wonder, took hold on him and he imagined himself as fluid in the flow of all life, whether of bird, animal, human being, or of mountain, stream, or sunlight.

God's institutions are His hills, mountains, rivers, seas, forests, plains, stars, planets or what you will that your eyes behold, or your heart feels.

Said Thoreau: "The universe is larger than enough for man's abode. Some rarely go outdoors, most are always at home at night, very few indeed have stayed out all night once in their lives, fewer still have gone behind the world of humanity, seen its institutions like toadstools by the wayside."

We get lost in streets, in our own homes, in our offices, searching for what is so lavishly displayed all about us in nature itself. We build great structures—but we must take their materials from the earth, where in their natural state, they glorify God and invite man's interest and adoration. But how little do we regard this opportunity!

No single structure, created by man, can ever compare adequately to one beautiful sunset, at dusk, or to one single hillside, carpeted with Springtime flowers, colorful and fragrant. One long look at the majestic Rockies, at the Grand Canyon of Arizona, or at a great expanse of flowered desert, is enough to stir the soul to an awakening of these institutions of God that are the inheritance of us all.

A very good place to miss your train is at a grade crossing.

The gums that form in an engine come not merely from stale gasoline but also from the "frying" of lubricating oil on heated parts. Outside of the engine along the fuel route there are plenty of spots where gums form, lowering the efficiency of such vital parts as the fuel pump and the carburetor. In the engine itself gums from fuel can affect the smooth flow of gas vapor through the intake manifold, and of course it causes valve and ring stickage. But the valves and rings are further subjected to the gumming of fried oil. This particular brand of gumming is usually referred to as engine "varnish" because it is inclined to harden. I have known of cases where engines actually ceased running when such varnish became excessive.

The remedy? Well, it's a matter of using gum solvents faithfully. Use the car wisely so that gasoline doesn't get stale and gums form.

Finishing The Job

The post-service procedure on cast iron and aluminum heads differs in one important point that too often is overlooked by those who try to do their own carbon cleaning. I refer to the matter of tightening the head nuts. On a cast iron head the secondary tightening is done after the engine has been run and a still warm. With an aluminum head the engine is given a warming up but the retightening of the heads nuts is not done until the engine has cooled off.

A student of Unity says that while she is waiting for the engine to warm up she always offers a prayer that during the day's travel she can avoid accidents by constant vigilance and consideration for the rights and welfare of others. She used this policy as the basis of an article on the spiritual values, but I do not believe she realizes how effective she unconsciously makes her plan by the fact that she talks with God while doing something that paves the way for answering of her prayers. A properly warmed up engine is a positive safeguard, yet how many drivers consider it as a safety step? Isn't it true that most of us impatiently head into the traffic stream with engines that are not yet ready to deliver power and performance needed for meeting emergencies? How can we expect prayer to be answered if we start the day's motoring blindly and without even the cooperation of lifting the hood for a simple inspection?

Mechanic Joe Speaking: "I never get too excited when an engine misses at all speeds because the trouble is so broad I have a chance to think of a lot of odd causes that may turn out to be the right answer."

"For instance, the missing may simply mean that the gas mixture is too rich because there is too much oil in the oil-bath type of air cleaner. Or there may be loose intake manifold nuts which lean out the mixture continually. I've seen a clogged muffler do it, or a pinched tail pipe. One that is always worth considering in the case of an engine with dual carburetion is lack of synchronization between the two throttle valves."

Some night when lifting the hood to inspect the running engine you may be mystified at sight of a spark around the coil, hazy purplish in color. It will also be marked by silence. Its color and its silence are merely proof that what you will be seeing is a normal static discharge. The more powerful the coil the greater the discharge. If the coil really were shorting through its insulation and cover the sparking would be more whitish in hue and there would be the characteristic snapping of a real short.

Three To Remember

If you see gasoline around the vent hole in the fuel pump body it means that there is a punctured or worn diaphragm. Pump output will be well below normal until the diaphragm is replaced.

It is extremely difficult to set brake shoes for the proper clearance unless the drums are true. When they are warped out of round naturally the shoes will drag if given the normally close clearance for best results.

Where an engine repeatedly fouls a few of its spark plugs, and if it is equipped with a fuel pump carrying a vacuum booster for the windshield, always suspect the diaphragm of the vacuum pump. If it is punctured it will allow oil to suck up into the cylinders nearest the point where the suction tube is attached to the intake manifold.

Sign of the month along service row reads, "Limp In—Leap out." You'd be surprised how many service stations are not half as busy as they've been reported to be. The biggest trouble with cars today continues to be their bad handlings. Check for yourself at any traffic light or where drivers try to park their cars. There's less difficulty getting parts in many quarters, and many owners are discovering that with a few changes slightly different parts can be made to fit. Champions of steam cars are again drumming up interest in this type of propulsion for post-war use.

Warm Engine The Trick

One of the automobile clubs double checked a test made to show that special pills put into the gasoline tank would result in improved gas mileage. It was a bit suspicious of the rosy claims made by the makers of such gas "boosters" and was particularly skeptical of the usual business of making a "test" with regular gasoline and then with the doped gas. Apparently it has discovered the secret of the seeming benefits of such pills, for it has revealed that a typical test was made with the engine cold where regular gas was used and warm where the pills were used in the gas. More important than the discovery of deception is the proof of the importance of warm engine operation. If owners would try to arrange their car errands in series rather than in disconnected jumps they would see a marked improvement in miles per gallon.

While it is true that a front tire worn cupped will set up a rumbling noise that sounds for all the world like a bad rear end condition there is one further fact that marks the difference between tire noise and the rear axle variety. Where front tires are involved invariably there is vibration at the instrument panel in addition to the rumble.

Having Their Troubles

Q Is there anything I can do about removing aluminum cylinder heads which corrode or stick to the block? R. M. S.

A There is a new tool on the market known as a corrosion cutter. The mechanic simply removes the nuts from the head studs, puts a drop of oil on each stud to oil the tool and then runs the tool down clockwise over each stud by hand (except the guide studs) until the tool reaches the cylinder block at the base of the head. The tool simply cuts and removes corrosion from around the studs.

Q There is a small leak at the bottom of the gas tank of my car. Would it be safe for me to remove the tank from the car and solder it? H. L. S.

A Due to the difficulty of expelling all gas fumes from the tank this is dangerous work. Take the job to an expert in this sort of service.

Q Even after new rings have been installed the engine of my car uses too much oil. There are no signs of leakage. The spark plugs are tight. What would account for the poor mileage? J. S. D.

A It is quite likely that the engine bearing inserts should have been replaced. Worn inserts allow excessive amounts of oil to fly off the bearings and overlubricate the cylinder walls. Also it is possible that the cylinders should have been rebored. If the rings are backed with expanders worn ring grooves will allow the oil to suck up behind the rings.

Q It is true that recapped tires are likely to throw the tires out of balance and make for noisy rolling or perhaps front wheel shimmy? W. N.

A I have heard many reports of recaps making tires run more smoothly. When a tread is worn

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

This is to express my thanks to you and the Gettysburg Times office staff, for all they are doing for the boys of Adams county, now serving in the Armed forces of our great country.

My outfit is soon to be shipped overseas. So I would like very much to have the home town paper follow me.

The first thing I look for in the mail, is of course the Gettysburg Times. It keeps me informed of all of my buddies and where they are located. By the time you hear from me again I may be many thousands of miles from here, and I would very much appreciate a copy of my old home town paper. By the way, how many men are there remaining in G-Burg now? Not very many by the looks of our county draft board.

Well, it's so long again and many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP) — A state-wide conference of education officials was called Friday for Apr. 29 to discuss wider use of radio broadcasting in Pennsylvania's post-war classroom work.

Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction, who called the meeting, said private and public educators have been invited to attend the one-day session.

"Pennsylvania takes this first step," he declared, "because the federal communications commission, at the request of U. S. Education Commissioner John W. ASNE DEMANDS "WORLD-WIDE" PRESS FREEDOM

By The Associated Press

Washington, April 22 — Leaders of the American Society of Newspaper Editors today backed strong demands for world-wide freedom of the press and communications, contending that only by the unhampered flow of truthful information among nations can peace be long guaranteed in the world.

Concern over the future of news distribution internationally was matched by admonitions that a ceaseless struggle must be waged at home to preserve what freedom the press now has.

David Lawrence, editor of the United States News, today told his colleagues in a prepared speech that the first amendment to the constitution, which forbids congress to abridge the right of free speech and free press, had ceased to be "adequate protection for the freedom of the press in America." He urged that consideration be given to the adoption of a new amendment.

ment more specific and specifically designed to counter modern encroachments on press freedom.

The editorial society itself was scheduled to state its position in a set of nine resolutions prepared by a special committee, headed by Wilbur Forrest of the New York Herald Tribune, for submission to the opening session of this second day of the meeting.

The proposals range from a commendation for the Buenos Aires newspapers, La Nacion and La Prensa, for their resistance to "dictatorial authority," to a policy statement on world communications. The latter, regarded by some ASNE officials as covering the key problem of postwar world press freedom, was understood to urge positive action by this and other governments to remove all hindrances to direct communication between nations.

Roy Roberts, managing editor of the Kansas City Star and society president, urged the editors to take the lead in efforts to obtain international agreements for a free flow of news, and his action apparently foreshadowed the main resolution to put the society on record to that effect.

The meeting will be concluded tonight with a banquet at which Navy Secretary Knox and Secretary of War Stimson will introduce ranking officers back from European and Pacific fighting fronts.

HARRISBURG, PA.

Hon. Francis Worley
R. D. 1, York Springs, Pa.
Dear Mr. Worley:—

I have been very pleased with your willingness to accept responsibility and to help in the work of the Legislature.

Again assuring you of my confidence in your ability to do this job satisfactorily, I am

For the Democratic Nomination for Congress

J. W. Gitt

This is what I stand for:

When a fellow runs for public office it is his duty to inform the voters of his stand upon important issues that confront the people.

The most important problem which faces this nation is the winning of the war in the shortest possible time at the least possible loss of life and limb. If nominated and elected to Congress I will give my sincere and non-political support to whoever happens to be our Commander in Chief at that time. Not only in connection with the mere waging of the war on the battle fronts but in respect to all other questions having to do with the war effort either on the field of battle or on the home front.

The next most important problem is the winning of the peace that will follow the war. We dare not lose another peace as we lost the last one. We dare not fail in our duty to the succeeding generations to protect them against further wars, if it be humanly possible to avoid them, as I believe it to be. The United States should take its proper place in international efforts toward collective security and should be willing to contribute its fair share toward making such an international League or Association for the maintenance of peace an unqualified success.

Of scarcely less importance is the avoiding of inflation, which can overcome us before we know it, unless we act wisely and with careful foresight. I will advocate and vote for every reasonable proposal to check inflation.

I am for a fair deal for labor. I believe in the Wagner Relations Act and the right of labor to organize to protect its rights and privileges and to bargain collectively with employers. I am for strengthening the Wagner Act and will oppose all efforts to weaken or circumvent it. I am for the repeal of the Smith Connally anti-labor bill.

I am for simplifying the tax laws and the tax blanks which almost all of us are now required to fill out and return to the Collector of Internal Revenue. It can be done.

I am for adequate social security.

I am opposed to all racial discrimination.

I am for making it possible for every man or woman in the armed services to vote at all elections in the simplest, easiest possible manner. And that means a Federal ballot. I am opposed to poll taxes and in favor of universal suffrage.

I am for paying as much of the cost of this war as possible while it is being fought. To push the cost of it off upon those who are doing the fighting, after they come home, seems to me to be unfair and unjust.

I believe that the interests of the great majority of the people should always be paramount. I am against special favors and privileges to any classes. I am opposed to monopoly and restraint of trade and special privilege of every kind. I will support all laws which I believe will strengthen the laws against monopoly and cartelism.

I believe that after this war the boys who come home should be guaranteed the right of employment at wages that will enable them to enjoy a good living. This should apply to all the rest of us, as well, who are ready to do our fair share as citizens of this democracy. To that end, I favor an economy of abundance after the war, instead of the economy of scarcity which in all too many instances existed before the war. And I favor such government checks as will bring about an economy of abundance and of full employment. This nation must be governed in the interests of the great majority of us, not of the few.

I am a candidate for Congress only because I feel that this nation with all others is at a cross roads in our civilization and that it is the duty of all of us who are genuinely interested in its well being, and have no personal fish to fry, to do our share toward seeing to it that we take the right road.

I pledge you that I will do my own thinking. That I will resist all pressure from lobbies for special interests. That I will act and vote in accordance with my honest, best judgment. That I will do my best to represent all the people of this nation and of this community and to do all those things which appear to me to be right and proper and wise and forward looking.

NEW MONETARY PLAN URGED TO BALANCE MONEY

By GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Money experts of 34 nations laid before the world today a plan to stabilize international financial relationships—a plan which Treasury Secretary Morgenthau termed "the keystone to all postwar economic planning."

Their agreement on principles, product of a year's study, calls for a fund of $8,000,000,000, of which the United States would put up from $2,500,000,000 to $2,750,000,000 of its huge store of gold designed to buy and sell gold and currencies to keep the world's money on an even keel.

Eventually, the sponsors suggested, it might be expanded to $10,000,000,000 to take in present neutrals and Axis countries.

Value In Each Nation

Each country's money would be assigned a value in gold.

Morgenthau presented the experts' statement—not binding on any government—to congressional committees in advance of the announcement last night.

Their reaction, he reported, was "on the whole, good—the reception on the senate side was a little better than in the house." Some house republicans said the idea needed careful study; others expressed violent disagreement.

The next step would be an invitation from President Roosevelt to other nations for a formal conference.

Russia added her approval yesterday to present a united front on the experts' plan.

In the case of the United States, it would require a congressional appropriation and legislation presumably along the lines already voted for the American share in the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration (UNRRA).

World Bank

Morgenthau said negotiations on principles for a proposed $10,000,000,000 world bank to finance reconstruction and rehabilitation have not been finished, but expressed hope such a bank could be considered at an international conference at the same time as the stabilization fund—"the sooner the better."

Without such a fund, he declared, the world at armistice time would be in a chaotic state.

The experts abandoned ideas for an international currency—the "unitas" proposed by the United States, or the "Bancor" suggested by Britain.

Primary announced purposes of the fund.

1. "To facilitate expansion and balanced growth of international trade and to contribute in this way to maintenance of a high level of employment and real income, which must be a primary objective of economic policy."

GOVERNOR SEES HOPE FOR NEW MILK POLICY

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP)—Governor Martin was hopeful today that federal authorities will give serious consideration to his plea for a new federal policy on milk even though Price Administrator Chester Bowles has declared "we can't raise prices."

Martin's appeal was made when he and representatives of nine other northeastern states conferred in Washington yesterday with Bowles and Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson.

The governor told reporters later he felt the request would receive "serious consideration" but was unable to say whether the relief sought would come in the form of increased subsidies to milk producers or price increases "here and there." The delegation, he said, had not requested subsidies.

A delegation spokesman also explained that while federal officials made it clear price boosts on a wide basis would not be made, they did not rule out the possibility of increases to take care of emergencies in smaller areas.

Martin urged specifically "announcement of a program of policy for the dairy industry to enable farmers to plan their future operations in accordance with goals which have been requested by the federal government."

The conference was sought after the OPA refused to approve orders of the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission increasing producer prices 90 cents a hundredweight (47 quarts) and retail prices two and three cents a quart.

States represented beside Pennsylvania were New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia and Maryland.

To the Voters of Adams County

In response to many inquiries I have been asked to make public my platform as a candidate for the Republican Nomination for the Legislature at the forthcoming primary, Tuesday, April 25th.

Here are the principal planks in my platform:

I will work, fight and vote for adequate legislation to protect the interests of our men and women in service.

I will support legislation that will enable our men and women in service, wherever they are, to vote for whom they see fit... and to cast that vote in the easiest and most convenient manner.

I will support every piece of legislation submitted to the state Legislature that will contribute the most to the War Effort and that will bring the quickest and safest Victory for our men and women in service.

I will work, fight and vote for legislation that will lend the greatest assistance to our men and women in service WHEN THEY RETURN FROM THE WAR in order that they may take up their civil pursuits without hindrance.

I will work, fight and vote for the state's retention and full control in the selection, maintenance and construction of state highways.

I am definitely opposed to the construction of SUPER-HIGHWAYS that tend to serve the large cities to the exclusion of the small communities.

I am definitely opposed to federal control or supervision of the selection or construction of our roads.

I will work, fight and vote for the present administration's program of constructing highways that will serve all our communities... ESPECIALLY THE SMALLER COMMUNITIES.

I will work, fight and vote for legislation that will be of the greatest benefit to our farmers and fruit growers because I feel that in their efforts lay one of the largest contributing factors toward an early winning of the war. FOOD FIGHTS FOR FREEDOM is a by-word in Adams County and those who provide the sustenance for our Armed Services as well as for those on the home-front are deserving of our whole-hearted support.

I will protect to the fullest extent of my ability EVERY INTEREST IN ADAMS COUNTY... BE IT LARGE OR SMALL.

I will support a progressive educational program for Adams County and Pennsylvania.

NEW MONETARY PLAN URGED TO BALANCE MONEY

By GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, April 22 (AP)—Money experts of 34 nations laid before the world today a program to stabilize international financial relationships—a plan which Treasury Secretary Morgenthau termed "the keystone to all postwar economic planning."

Their agreement on principles, product of a year's study, calls for a fund of $8,000,000,000, of which the United States would put up from $2,500,000,000 to $2,750,000,000 of its huge store of gold designed to buy and sell gold and currencies to keep the world's money on an even keel.

Eventually, the sponsors suggested, it might be expanded to $10,000,000,000 to take in present neutrals and Axis countries.

Value In Each Nation

Each country's money would be assigned a value in gold.

Morgenthau presented the experts' statement—not binding on any government—to congressional committees in advance of the announcement last night.

Their reaction, he reported, was "on the whole, good—the reception on the senate side was a little better than in the house." Some house republicans said the idea needed careful study; others expressed violent disagreement.

The next step would be an invitation from President Roosevelt to other nations for a formal conference.

Russia added her approval yesterday to present a united front on the experts' plan.

In the case of the United States, it would require a congressional appropriation and legislation presumably along the lines already voted for the American share in the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration (UNRRA).

Without such a fund, he declared, the world at armistice time would be in a chaotic state.

The experts abandoned ideas for an international currency—the "unitas" proposed by the United States, or the "Bancor" suggested by Britain.

Primary announced purposes of the fund:

1. "To facilitate expansion and balanced growth of international trade and to contribute in this way to maintenance of a high level of employment and real income, which must be a primary objective of economic policy."

2. "To avoid fluctuations in currency values and eliminate foreign exchange restrictions."

Principal investments in the fund would come from the United States, Great Britain, whose share would be about $1,250,000,000 and Russia, about $1,000,000,000.

The agreement to base money values on gold and to set up the fund represented a victory for American principles proposed by Dr. Harry D. White of the treasury. But the United States experts yielded on their idea of giving this country a veto power over international action by weight of votes.

The fund would be governed by a board on which each country would be represented, and by an executive committee of at least nine members, including representatives of the five countries with the largest quotas. China and France likely would be the fourth and fifth nations.

PUC FREEZES AIR TRANSPORTERS' APPLICATIONS

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP)—Applications for rights to transport passengers and freight by air were frozen indefinitely today by the Public Utility Commission except where it can be demonstrated the necessary equipment is on hand or currently available for purchase.

Equipment isn't available now and isn't likely to be available until after the war, Commission Chairman John Siggins, Jr., said in a statement of policy. In the interim, he added, "both the development and adaptability of aircraft for public use, and the pattern of competitive surface transportation, may be subject to material change."

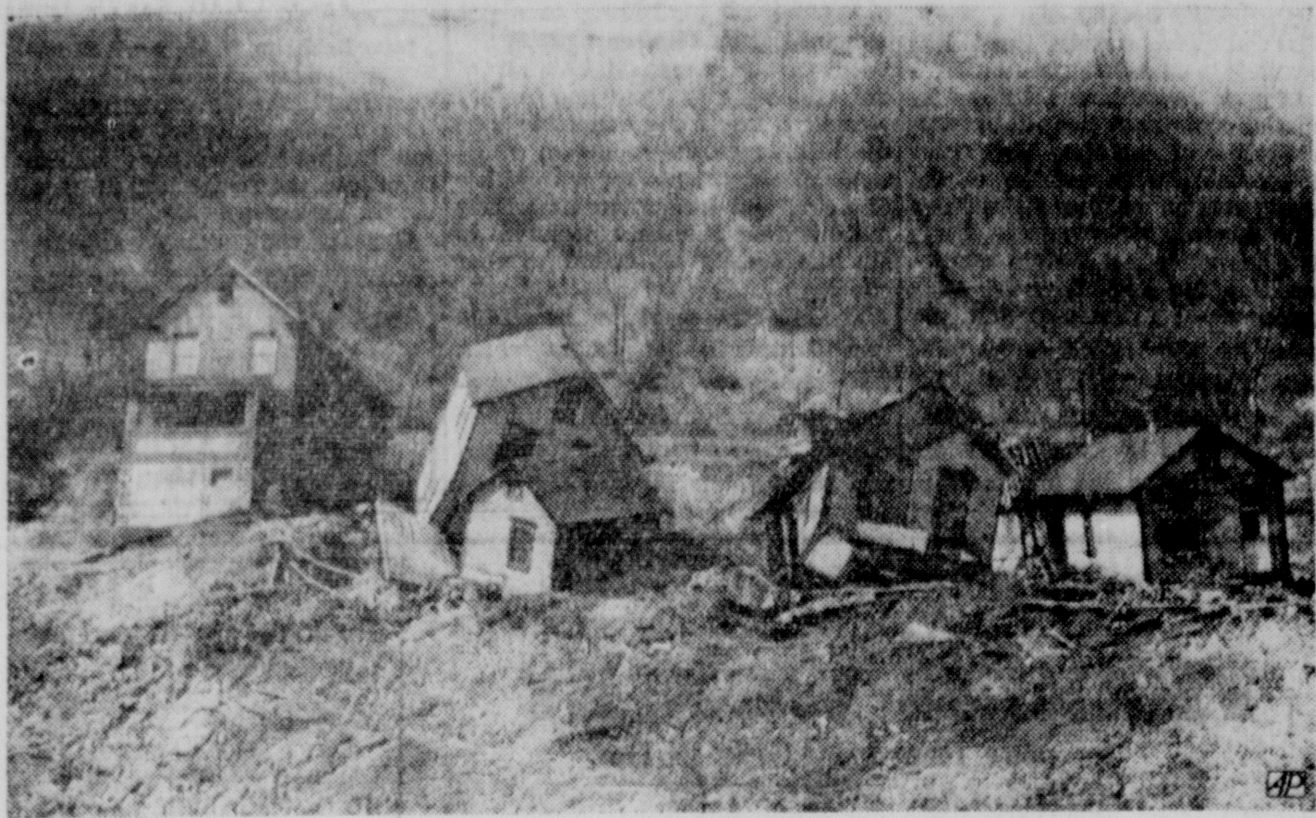

No Further Hearings

"Pending applications will not be disposed of," Siggins said, "and no further hearings will be scheduled either on pending applications or on those subsequently received."

Siggins also said the commission ruled "priority in the filing of such applications will not be controlling in granting the rights sought."

Meanwhile the Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission reported a

The survey was made, the commission explained, after an original plan for an airport or landing field for every community of 5,000 population or more was found inadequate because of advances in aviation.

Pending applications affected by the new PUC policy were listed by the commission as those of Russell V. Trader, doing business as Land and Water Air-Service, Yellow Cab Company of Pittsburgh, Airlines Transportation Company, all of Pittsburgh, and P. X. Bowman, Girard, Erie Company.

GOVERNOR SEES HOPE FOR NEW MILK POLICY

Harrisburg, April 22 (AP)—Governor Martin was hopeful today that federal authorities will give serious consideration to his plea for a new federal policy on milk even though Price Administrator Chester Bowles has declared "we can't raise prices."

Martin's appeal was made when he and representatives of nine other northeastern states conferred in Washington yesterday with Bowles and Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson.

The governor told reporters later he felt the request would receive "serious consideration" but was unable to say whether the relief sought would come in the form of increased subsidies to milk producers or price increases "here and there." The delegation, he said, had not requested subsidies.

A delegation spokesman also explained that while federal officials made it clear price boosts on a wide basis would not be made, they did not rule out the possibility of increases to take care of emergencies in smaller areas.

Martin urged specifically "announcement of a program of policy for the dairy industry to enable farmers to plan their future operations in accordance with goals which have been requested by the federal government."

The conference was sought after the OPA refused to approve orders of the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission increasing producer prices 90 cents a hundredweight (47 quarts) and retail prices two and three cents a quart.

States represented beside Pennsylvania were New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia and Maryland.

The Royal Netherlands Marine Corps, senior among the sea-going soldier services of the United Nations, dates to 1665.

Enrollments in colleges and other institutions of higher learning in the United States in 1944 are more than one-quarter below the 1940 level.

Production of 821,000 ice refrigerators is planned for 1944 by the War Production Board.

To the Voters of Adams County

In response to many inquiries I have been asked to make public my platform for the Republican Nomination for the Legislature at the forthcoming primary, Tuesday, April 25th.

Here are the principal planks in my platform:

I will work, fight and vote for adequate legislation to protect the interests of our men and women in service.

I will support legislation that will enable our men and women in service, wherever they are, to vote for whom they see fit . . . and to cast that vote in the easiest and most convenient manner.

I will support every piece of legislation submitted to the state Legislature that will contribute the most to the War Effort and that will bring the quickest and safest Victory for our men and women in service.

I will work, fight and vote for legislation that will lend the greatest assistance to our men and women in service WHEN THEY RETURN FROM THE WAR in order that they may take up their civil pursuits without hindrance.

I will work, fight and vote for the state's retention and full control in the selection, maintenance and construction of state highways.

I am definitely opposed to the construction of SUPER-HIGHWAYS that tend to serve the large cities to the exclusion of the small communities.

I am definitely opposed to federal control or supervision of the selection or construction of our roads.

I will work, fight and vote for the present administration's program of constructing highways that will serve all our communities . . . ESPECIALLY THE SMALLER COMMUNITIES.

I will work, fight and vote for legislation that will be of the greatest benefit to our farmers and fruit growers because I feel that in their efforts lay one of the largest contributing factors toward an early winning of the war. FOOD FIGHTS FOR FREEDOM is a by-word in Adams County and those who provide the sustenance for our Armed Services as well as for those on the home-front are deserving of our whole-hearted support.

I will protect to the fullest extent of my ability EVERY INTEREST IN ADAMS COUNTY . . . BE IT LARGE OR SMALL.

I will support a progressive educational program for Adams County and Pennsylvania.

Gus Dorazio Wins Through Knockout

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP)—Heavyweight Gus Dorazio, 206, Philadelphia, scored a fourth-round knockout over Ernie Williams, 201 1/2, Paterson, N. J., last night in a scheduled eight-round feature at the Cambria.

Williams was battered furiously in the first, third and fourth frames until he dropped for the count.

In a pair of sixes, Johnny Johnson, 156, Philadelphia, decisioned Willie Clayton, 162, Atlantic City, while Joe Falco, 143, Philadelphia, outpointed Macoy Jones, 143 1/2, Camden.

Expect Teen-Age Youths To Join CAP

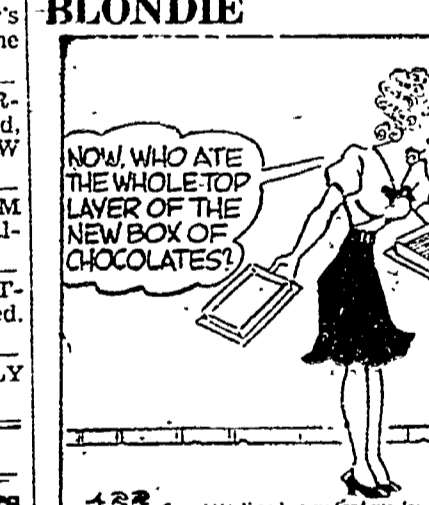

Pittsburgh, April 22 (AP)—Col. Earl L. Johnson, national commander of the civil air patrol, expects a pool of a quarter million teen-age youths will be recruited by the CAP to form a backlog in the Army aid forces after the war is over.

He said yesterday: "We want to get the youth of this country physically fit so that the United States can continue its supremacy in the air. Gen. Arnold, head of the Army air forces, does not want this country to slip back to where it was in 1938."

Decommissioned war planes would be used to instruct the CAP reserve group, he said.

Mascots "Registered" For Party Conventions

Chicago, April 22 (AP)—The Republican and Democratic national conventions, to be held here this summer, got off to an early start Friday when a lop-eared elephant and a white donkey marched into the Stevens hotel lobby and up to the clerk's desk.

The elephant, representing the GOP symbol, was registered as "Judy," and the donkey, the Democratic mascot, as "Andrew Jackson."

At the registration ceremony at the headquarters of the two national conventions were Harrison Spangler, Walter S. Hallanan and Harold W. Mason of the Republican national committee, and Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg and Ambrose O'Connell of the Democratic national committee.

Henri, after some difficulty in finding a part of the road wide enough to turn the hay cart in the opposite direction, finally succeeded. Raoul and Adrienne were so violently shaken in the process that they expected the cart to turn over and dump them on the road. They did not breathe freely until the hay cart was once more traveling back in the opposite direction.

Henri did not speak until they had covered enough distance from the patrol. Then he drew up the horses and alighted.

"Quick, out with you both. There's no time to lose. It's a wonder he did not search the hay."

Raoul clambered down instantly and Adrienne jumped into his outstretched arms.

"Get behind that hedge," Bisette indicated a thick hedge bordering the road.

For the moment there was no sound in the countryside excepting the croaking of frogs at a nearby creek.

Mamselle will have to make the Mamselle will have to make the rest of the journey on foot. It will perhaps take you several days. You have fifty miles to go that way."

He pointed in a northwesterly direction. "Keep to the fields and hide if you hear any patrols. You must rest by day if possible and travel by night. It's the only way. Remember Monsieur, the sawed-off roots of an old willow tree marks the entrance of the tunnel, not far distant from a grey stone cottage about a mile from the coast line."

Raoul looked at the girl beside him with concern.

"Thanks, Henri. I'll remember."

"Mine is here," Adrienne indicated the pocket of her jacket.

"Perhaps we can get some milk en route."

"Perhaps, but it's dangerous to make any contacts even with farmers unless you know them. Au revoir."

ESCAPE from PARIS

by Marion McClure Stewart

AP Features

For several days Adrienne and Raoul remained hidden in the hay loft, while Etienne was in Paris to return his brother's milk wagon and the identification cards belonging to the latter and his assistant, Gascon.

During this time Madame Lanctot brought them their food, and Henri Bisette, the farm hand, acted as outpost, while they came down for brief periods of fresh air. Madame Lanctot told them that one of Francois Morin's pigeons had been released with a message informing Le petit Capitaine, as Francois was known, that the fugitives would soon be on their way to him.

And now they were moving as fast as possible deeply embedded in a heavily laden hay cart drawn by two horses, driven by Henri toward Granville on the coast.

Adrienne thought of Schafer. She knew he would use every means in his power to discover her whereabouts. She knew he would never forgive her for having outwitted him, and had no illusions as to her fate if she were discovered.

Adrienne and Raoul found diversion in watching the German planes circling overhead, and got glimpses of dogfights over the distant coast line between Messerschmitts and Spitfires.

Once Raoul murmured as a plane plunged into the Channel, "Did you see that, Adrienne? I hope it was a Nazi."

Adrienne echoed the wish, asking how far he thought they had traveled.

"Perhaps fifty miles," he hazarded. "It's hardly speedy travel."

Shortly after, darkness fell. The hay cart came suddenly to a standstill with a violent lurch. She could hear loud Nazi voices ordering Henri to halt.

"Where do you come from?" demanded the officer in charge of an armed patrol.

Henri mentioned the name of a small village en route and produced his identification card which the Nazi inspected by the light of his electric torch.

"Where are you taking this hay?" came the next sharp inquiry.

"To Jules Simard, a farmer who lives not far distant from Granville."

"Then you will turn back to where you came from. My orders are that no vehicles of any kind except military cars are allowed to pass here."

Henri, after some difficulty in finding a part of the road wide enough to turn the hay cart in the opposite direction, finally succeeded. Raoul and Adrienne were so violently shaken in the process that they expected the cart to turn over and dump them on the road. They did not breathe freely until the hay cart was once more traveling back in the opposite direction.

Henri did not speak until they had covered enough distance from the patrol. Then he drew up the horses and alighted.

"Quick out with you both. There's no time to lose. It's a wonder he did not search the hay."

Raoul clambered down instantly and Adrienne jumped into his outstretched arms.

"Get behind that hedge," Bisette indicated a thick hedge bordering the road.

For the moment there was no sound in the countryside excepting the croaking of frogs at a nearby creek.

Mamselle will have to make the Mamselle will have to make the rest of the journey on foot. It will perhaps take you several days. You have fifty miles to go that way."

He pointed in a northwesterly direction. "Keep to the fields and hide if you hear any patrols. You must rest by day if possible and travel by night. It's the only way. Remember, Monsieur, the saved-off roots of an old willow tree marks the entrance of the tunnel, not far distant from a grey stone cottage about a mile from the coast line."

Raoul looked at the girl beside him with concern.

"Thanks, Henri. I'll remember." He pressed some money into Bisette's hand as the three of them stood in the shelter of the hedge.

"I can easily make it, but what about you, Adrienne?"

"I must do it, Raoul. There's no other way. Thank you, Henri, for all your goodness."

"You have your package of food, I see, Monsieur. What about you, Mamselle?"

"Mine is here," Adrienne indicated the pocket of her jacket.

Shirley Temple Is 16 Years Old

Hollywood, April 22 (AP) — The greatest child star of them all, Shirley Temple, will celebrate her sixteenth birthday tomorrow.

The milestone finds the child who netted $20,000,000 for her studio, Twentieth Century Fox, during the five years of her child stardom, again under contract, this time to David Selznick.

Her child prettiness has been enhanced, soft chestnut hair replacing the blonde curls. She is five feet one and one-half inches tall, tips the scales at a trifling over 100 pounds, and her softly rounded but slender figure enables her producer to cast her as a year older than she is.

Shirley goes out on dates, with groups of four to eight school chums. She asks photographs to refrain from snapping her when dancing, for fear of embarrassing less camera-wise partners. Among her admirers is Dale Harris, fellow thespian aged 17, her screen date in her current film, Harris followed her family to Palm Springs, camped in a tent to see her daily.

PRISONERS OF REDS TELL OF DESERTIONS

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Odessa, April 22 (AP) — A group of war prisoners—Germans, Romanians, Slovaks, Poles and French—were lined up Friday batch by batch on a sun-lit cobblestone street of the Slobodka workers' quarter on the hills behind Odessa.

One by one they told their stories to Allied correspondents—stories of discouragement, despair and finally desertion from the German army.

As deserters they probably are not typical of German's frontline fighting men, but as individuals they offered a fair cross-section of the odds and odds the Germans have brought into the army from their own and satellite countries for the final defense of the European fortress.

Small, Drab Germans
As such they are a far from impressive lot.

The prisoners—570 of them at the time of our visit—were kept in separate compartments according to nationalities, lest the Romanians, Poles and other subjects of occupied countries try to beat up the Germans.

First to come out of the house were the Germans. They were surprisingly small in physique and drab in appearance.

Guilty

Roger Lewis Gardner (above) appears in federal court in New York city where a jury deliberated only five minutes before finding him guilty of posing as a government attorney and defrauding a woman to whom he had proposed marriage. Gardner possibly will be transferred to Los Angeles, Calif., where he is wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying last July of Mrs. Ora Murray.

Hon. Chester H. Gross.
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Dear Chester:

Sincerely hope you will have a pleasant Easter vacation and that you will encounter no difficulty in your campaign for re-election and reelection.

Personally, I am very grateful for the fine support you have given us in our many battles for Sound, Constitutional government.

It is the loyalty of men like yourself which has made it possible for us to reduce the past year appropriations in the neighborhood of two billions of dollars. You have also been very helpful on important committees on which you serve.

Your reelection will bring about an increased opportunity for service and bring greater recognition in committee work.

Every indication now is that the Republicans will be entrusted with control of the next House. This will give us a great responsibility to the people of our country, and it will be a responsibility which will require men of experience.

With best wishes, I am
Sincerely yours,
Joseph W. Martin, Jr.

To Mr. Joe Martin, the floor leader upon whose shoulders rests the responsibility of carrying the Republican program through the House, it does make a difference who comes to Congress. The local politicians don't care. Neither do the local Bosses. There are now 285 lawyers in Congress and 24 farmers.

Are you farmers going to let the politicians cheat you out of your representation and add another lawyer? If you don't want to be represented by an ultra conservative of the Old Penrose Grundy Machine or a New Dealer, vote for Gross.

It is going to take a strong man from York County to defeat the New Deal candidate next fall.

Gross has defended labor's rights. Read his speech on the National Service Act.

Your sons and daughters are fighting all over the world to keep America free where men and women can vote for whom they please. Won't you back them up here on the home front by taking time to go to the polls and voting for who you want in office? Won't you go in the morning and take your neighbor along?

This is serious business—vote for a proven and experienced Congressman, who is a lifelong resident of the district—Vote for Chester H. GROSS.

He carried the banner when the party was in the dog house. When the going was hard. He will carry it to victory next fall.

The National Committee as well as the State Committee has endorsed all of the sitting Congressmen. His opposition comes entirely from local politicians.

PRISONERS OF REDS TELL OF DESERTIONS

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Odessa, April 22 (AP) — A group of war prisoners—Germans, Romanians, Slovaks, Poles and French —were lined up Friday batch by batch on a sun-lit cobblestone street of the Siobodka workers' quarter on the hills behind Odessa.

One by one they told their stories to Allied correspondents—stories of discouragement, despair and finally desertion from the German army.

As deserters they probably are not typical of German's frontline fighting men, but as individuals they offerred a fair cross-section of the odds and ends the Germans have brought into the army from their own and satellite countries for the final defense of the European fortress.

Small, Drab Germans

As such they are a far from impressive lot.

The prisoners—570 of them at the time of our visit—were kept in separate compartments according to nationalities, lest the Romanians, Poles and other subjects of occupied countries try to beat up the Germans.

First to come out of the house were the Germans. They were surprisingly small in physique and drab in appearance.

Dodged Orders

The largest was Master Sgt. Hans

Goebel, 27, who said he was a junior doctor in the German army. He said he stayed in a private apartment in Odessa when he heard the Red Army approaching and dodged orders to go to the front. He surrendered when the Russians entered the city.

"My father is a Communist. I don't share the Nazi views," he declared. "I want to stay in the Soviet Union as a doctor."

A little fellow, named Hermann

Petz, 23, said he served seven months in a Nazi prison for "political talk."

Then, he said, he was assigned to a penalty battalion. He deserted at Odessa.

Intended to Desert

Then came the Romanians. They were big, sunburned men who said they had been "deceived" by the Germans and made it plain they did not want to fight anyone any more.

Next were the Poles. They all said they wanted to join Gen. Sigmund Berling's Polish army in the Soviet Union and fight against the Germans.

The finest physical specimens were the French. There were 10 tall, tanned and hardened men from

Alsace Lorraine who were demolized from the French army in 1940 and conscripted by the Germans in 1943 and forced to go to Russia.

They said they came with the sole intention of deserting and joining

Gen. Charles de Gaulle's fighting

French at the first opportunity.
